United Way of Lake County is proud to celebrate the second anniversary of 211 services for Lake County.

Join with community leaders and stakeholders to learn how 211 has grown to become a lifeline for people across the county seeking help meeting basic needs.

You'll hear about 211's measurable impact, data on community-specific needs, and the results we have seen in year two during this critical time of the pandemic.

You'll also hear stories of how 211 has made a real difference for community members, employers, agencies and local government.

Marc Jones, Waukegan Township Supervisor, will moderate a panel of local leaders discussing how 211 as a one-stop shop more efficiently guides people to resources to help improve lives, including a more in-depth discussion on the top needs and solutions to address them.

Help us recognize the incredible support and collaboration of so many individuals, employers, community leaders and partners who have joined with us to bring this vital service to Lake County, and celebrate the results we've achieved together.
