Faith Leaders' Brunch

Called to Care: Faith, Recovery, and the Work of Healing

Faith leaders and community-based organizations are coming together for an important discussion related to becoming more recovery oriented in our communities and our families.

This gathering aims to educate faith-based community leaders, helping them to foster more compassionate conversations around substance misuse, housing instability and the challenges impacting our veterans and the faith-based circles they navigate.

Substance use and mental health challenges affect people in every community, including those within our houses of worship.

Through awareness and open dialogue, we hope to reduce the stigma and create pathways for support, healing, and action. We invite faith leaders to join us in learning, sharing, and exploring ways we can uplift those in need.

Together, we can ensure that our places of worship remain spaces of understanding, hope, and transformation.
